The public policy group America's Survival, Inc. (ASI) will take members of the press and the public on a "tour" of a terrorist bomb factory during a July 16 National Press Club news conference in Washington, D.C. The bomb factory was discovered by the FBI in San Francisco during a time when the Weather Underground, headed by Bill Ayers and Bernardine Dohrn, bombed the Park Police Station in San Francisco, killing Sergeant Brian V. McDonnell.

The news conference is being held at 1:00 pm in the Zenger room of the National Press club, 529 14th St. NW, 13th Floor, Washington, DC. 20045.

ASI President Cliff Kincaid has called the news conference to counter the Bill Ayers interview on the Fox News "Kelly File" show that glossed over the nature of the terrorist bombing campaign and falsely portrayed Ayers and his comrades as mere "anti-war" activists. The bomb factory "tour" features photographs of bomb-making equipment and explosives, disguise kits, communist literature, and the names of those Weather Underground members, including Ayers, whose fingerprints were taken from the scene.

Kincaid said, "The 'Kelly File' show amounted to rehabilitation of a communist terrorist and sets the stage for President Obama to issue pardons for Ayers' comrades still in prison." Kincaid has written a 12-page letter to Fox News CEO Roger Ailes, detailing how his anchor Megyn Kelly was poorly prepared for this interview and how she created a false narrative and impression of the activities of the communist killers. The letter is available at www.usasurvival.org

Another speaker at the news conference will be Jerry Kenney, the Florida-based TV producer behind the new venture, America's Survival TV, on Roku, a conservative alternative to Fox News. The America's Survival TV show has featured interviews with Max Noel, the former FBI agent who helped discover the Weather Underground bomb factory in San Francisco and arrested the UNABOMBER. America's Survival TV is also interviewing Lindsay Grathwohl, who has expressed disappointment and disgust with Megyn Kelly for letting Bill Ayers lie about her father, the late Larry Grathwohl, an FBI informant who exposed the Weather Underground's bombing murder of Sgt. McDonnell.
